5 things you didn't know about Photoshop Adobe Photoshop is a suite of image editing software that includes Adobe's Graphics Design suite as well as tools for image-editing, graphics, video, web and other creative uses. It has been commercially available since 1984. Adobe Photoshop is available for both personal and professional use, and it supports a large number of platforms. Video: 9 of the best Photoshop features you should know about Adobe Photoshop's core purpose is to provide creative professionals and amateurs alike with tools to create, manipulate, and share digital images. Here are 5 things you didn't know about Photoshop. 1. There are free versions There is a free version, Photoshop Elements, and a set of subscriptions to different versions, starting at $7.99 a month for Photoshop Elements and ending at $20.99 a month for Photoshop. You can download the free version of Photoshop Elements here. You can find links to each subscription version at the bottom of the Photoshop page. You can check out the free version of Photoshop here. The free version of Photoshop allows you to open Photoshop files from the desktop, but it does not let you save to the desktop. Additionally, certain features may not be available in the free version. These include: layers, shape layers, and filters. You can learn more about using these features in the pages below.

2. Using Photoshop with Windows is Free If you have an Intel Core 2 Duo or AMD Athlon 64 X2 processor, or an ATI or Nvidia graphics card, you can use the Windows version of Photoshop for free. You can access all of the features of Photoshop from any version of Windows, and you can use Photoshop on any hardware that runs Windows. To open a Photoshop file, or run Photoshop, click the Windows logo from the Start Screen to open the Windows Store. The Windows Store has a handful of options within the Photoshop category. Just look for the “Photoshop” option. If you don’t see Photoshop, you may need to scroll down the list of apps. To open a Photoshop file, click the “Open” option on the bottom left of the search bar and select the file you want to open. If you have a Mac or an iPad, the process is slightly different. Click the Apple logo from a681f4349e
