Cytochrome c is synthesized in Euglena gracilis, and it is phosphorylated in vivo. The phosphorylated cytochrome c was purified and characterized. Electron transport in isolated thylakoids was inhibited by phosphorylated cytochrome c. Furthermore, the phosphorylated cytochrome c forms aggregates in the presence of the diffusible factor of Anabaena PCC 7120 (dehydrogenase-reductase). Possible mechanisms of action of the phosphorylated cytochrome c in the inhibition of electron transport are discussed. Q: Angular 2 animation with import stylesheet I have Angular 2 app with Angular material animation. I have several CSS classes, like "ripple", "fade-in", "fly" etc. I want to know how to animate this class if for example, I call it like this: `@Component({ selector: 'ripple-class-name', templateUrl: './ripple-class-name.html', animations: [trigger('example', [transition('example => fly', animate('1s ease-out')), transition('fly => fade-in', animate('1s ease-out'))]] })` and if for example I have the css attribute like this: `.ripple { animation: fly 1s ease-out; }` `@Component({ selector: 'ripple-class-name', templateUrl:`

An Introduction to Three Dimensional Human Form - Mudra Some humans are quick to dismiss the idea that they could ever be bullied just because of their gender or their looks. Then there are those who think that they have a strong personality, or are outgoing and people-oriented. I was so dismayed when I saw an anatomical model in the anatomy museum. The model showed only the skeleton of the human form. It was more like a display of a corpse than of the body of a living human being. The general public doesn't know that the model's expression really can portray the facial expressions of the human being.
