Qualitative analysis of the experiences of patients]. The purpose of this study was to identify the experience of the patients from the viewpoint of the integrative medicine (IM) in the care provision for type 2 diabetes mellitus (DM2). The study was conducted between January 2014 and June 2014. The type of qualitative research of phenomenological approach was used. The meaning of the life of a type 2 DM2 patient was described through the experiences acquired from the IM care provision, which was found through unstructured interviews. The IM treatments are perceived by the patients to be as an important part of their care. The IM treatments are related to an altered perception of the body, spiritual approach, increased self-management of the patients, and changed views of DM2. The experience of the patients from the viewpoint of the IM care provision was described through the experiences acquired from the IM care provision. The findings revealed that the patients had a comprehensive vision of their life situation and the related needs.
