The ultimate in fake error simulations. Fake An Error is the most sophisticated, realistic and complete fake error tool available on the market. Its proprietary technology emulates any PC error you specify. You have total control over the duration and content of the message box that it creates. You can even disable the standard error message box that Windows generates. Once you have generated the fake error, it can then be scheduled to occur at any time in the future. You can even have it automatically shutdown your PC at a specified time. In addition, Fake An Error will also automatically and randomly generate the C:\windows\sources\ber_notifica\ber_notifica.cab file and send it to your desktop. This file is like a virus! It copies itself each time it is loaded. The one and only cure is to delete the Fake-An-Error File and the annoying C:\windows\sources\ber_notifica\ber_notifica.cab file. You can also delete fake errors and data once the PC is rebooted. WinFlash is a free Flash Conversion tool. It can be used to convert almost all Flash files, such as Flash SWF, FLV, AVI, MP3, MP4, JPG, JPEG, PNG, GIF, BMP to SWF format. It has many other features, such as including the conversion of browsers (IE, Firefox, Chrome, Opera, Safari, AOL, Netscape, Epiphany), and also preview before converting. It is an excellent Windows utility that can be used to extract files from Windows archive files, such as Winzip, 7-Zip, WinRAR or other similar file formats. WinFlash can extract files, add buttons and skins to web pages, rips and converts P2P, rip music, audio and video files from DVD. BigFix is an inexpensive security product for Windows. It's a standalone antivirus/antispyware with a scanner that works in combination with our full-featured, but easy-to-use malware protection solution. It is available for free as a 30-day trial. XFCE is an acronym for eXperimental Feature Complete Edition. XFCE is an advanced desktop environment intended to be simple to use, feature rich, and be able to run well on older computers. HARDR is an open source, free, audio server and digital radio application. It is written in C and runs on Linux. 09e8f5149f
