A crew of 23 FIFA Pro players, including many of the biggest names in the world, took part in the challenges. Players were challenged on a variety of technical and mental attributes – making passes, dribbling, maintaining possession, cutting inside and latching onto off-the-ball runs. With full-day-long video sessions and a final test on the day of the challenge, each participant was judged on how well they performed. The winners, who are each winners of a gold in-game challenge medal, will be announced on 5 March at the Game Awards Ceremony. They will also compete in the FIFA 22 EA SPORTS Human Engine Contest in Canada on 16 March, and be entered into the FIFA 22 Endurance Race with the chance to win a trip to Los Angeles to compete in a FIFA Ultimate Team Challenge with five of their teammates. A panel of judges will make the final decision on who wins the trip to LA. The EA Sports eSports Showcase, which will see the players compete live in front of a stadium crowd, kicks off on 15 March in Los Angeles. This will include the FIFA 22 EA SPORTS Human Engine Challenge, the Endurance Race and, following an online vote, the final decision on who wins the trip to LA. To vote or for ticket information, visit www.facebook.com/easports. “We really value players and the people who create the products we make, and this challenge was a great opportunity for us to share the love that goes into FIFA,” said FIFA 22 Producer Paul Arnison. “We hope that this gives players around the world the chance to be a part of something special and get to see the incredible amounts of data we have collected being used to create some of the most visually stunning features in FIFA,” he added. “We were really impressed by how the players rose to the challenge of this challenge and interacted with each other.” Watch the videos below for an insight into how the players put themselves through their paces: Further details: EA SPORTS Human Engine Challenge The Twitch stream will begin 30 minutes after
