Of course there is going to be a bit of a struggle to get to a quick confirmation, but don't worry it is going to be worth it once you do make it! So don't delay check it out! Reboot the phone and it should quickly come up to Factory Default. Which should be "Erase all user data" it will make it so there is no data left on the phone. After this is done hit "Restore Factory Default". It will now bring the phone back to what it was like when you first received it. If it fails you could do this: Install Zjawn's SuperSU and it might tell you to update to the latest version of SuperSU but don't worry its fine, just get the latest one and then when it asks you to update it, update it and then update the latest one and get back to me if it gives any problems. As for the romhack you can try this one: I wouldn't install it if I were you, but it seems to have worked for others. As for the phones harddrive I suggest wiping all data and then try installing the romhack. I didn't make this, this is the rom, I'm actually thinking of putting the rom on another phone as it's only one rom and it might be more of a hassle to install it all over again on a different phone. If you like the ROM, go ahead, but for the user it's kind of unnecessary and annoying Updates If anyone has it installed and updated to the beta version of PES 2019, could you please post in that thread because it's only two people talking about it? This JavaScript rendering library is awesome - jmilik ===== jmilik Hi everyone, I'm one of the developers that made this library, and I'd like to know what you guys think about it, and what problems you might see with it. Let me know if you have any other questions, and thanks in advance! ~~~ samwillis Having seen it in action for the first time and being put off by the idea of refining images into SVG form and then sending it back down to the client, i can understand the use case and would use this in
