The Elden Ring Free Download series was first introduced to the world in The Legend of Zelda: Majora's Mask, and the series quickly gained a large following. In collaboration with Nintendo, Koei began the development of an action RPG for the Nintendo 3DS, which is scheduled for launch on February 19, 2016. The vast world is home to an unknown and overwhelming threat, and its heroic characters must rise to become an Elden Lord. By inhabiting the body of the Hero of Time, you can further achieve the distinct character development and team play that gamers are accustomed to in the ELDEN RING series. The main character receives moral growth, and you can change his or her position on the powerful scale of good and evil over the course of the story. A mesmerizing and open world without loading screen! Open the world as you please and roam freely.

Monsters scattered everywhere have their own patterns and various AI when encountering you. The player's character, necessary for you to defeat monsters, works as an AI and occurs when unexpected players attack you. It may be frustrating at times, but beware of hidden threats and be ready with a strong shield!

Play in a variety of difficult battles, ranging from low- and middle- level adventurers to a challenge against the strongest bosses. It's not just the physical difficulty of the bosses: the boss encounters tell the unique story of the world between the places of the ring.

A variety of skills to harness! There are many situations in which you could use certain skills to your advantage, but watch out! If you use too many, your survival will be at risk. If you don't pick the appropriate skill, you'll not be prepared for some situations.

You will not be alone. You meet people who live in various places of the Lands Between, such as swordsmiths, maids, and adventurers.

Encounter other various NPCs. The game's maps, made to connect the different maps seamlessly, also feature various people in need of help.

Many Traps scattered throughout the world! When unsuspecting adventurers stray towards a trap, they'll be caught by the guards and be captured.

Ewan Gray, 25, found out a cancerous growth had formed on his face in 2011, but he felt it could be removed with laser surgery. However, the mum from St Andrews, Fife, Fife, opted against this cosmetic procedure, after taking her son's side. Ewan, who attends Cowdenbeath High School, said: "Having nothing to lose, I opted for a laser after seeing my son's friend have it done and saw it on Facebook at first. "He said it was the best thing he had ever had done and told his mum at that point. "Everything to me seemed to fall into place and I had a perfect wedding with my girlfriend exactly a year later." However, six weeks later, Ewan found out the growth was back and had to be operated on again. He added: "I was doing my A levels and my girlfriend was working. "My mum phoned me up and told me the growth had come back because I was running out of time to go to university. "I went into hospital but for some reason the surgery was put on hold." Ewan, a digital project apprentice for Fujitsu, said he was in a "little bit of shock" when the growth made a comeback after being first removed by doctors in 2013. And he decided to have a play with his son's face, never realising that he could get his own surgery on. After scanning Ewan's face with laser equipment, he was told he had "quite a lot of scarring" from previous operations. Ewan's mum Emmalina said
