A: It appears your user (as you say you're a superuser) has a file call libopensslt.so. There is also a file: libopensslt.so.7. You can remove libopensslt.so.7 by using sudo rm /usr/lib/libopensslt.so sudo rm /usr/lib/libopensslt.so.7 But you may get errors if you do this. Perhaps in that case remove the libopensslt.so.7 package first: sudo apt remove libopensslt.so.7 But don't delete libopensslt.so, leave that file alone. Then you can go back and install the "openssl" package to get the libopensslt.so sudo apt install libopenssl-ruby libopenssl.so.7 libopenssl097.7 libopenssl1225 You can then try again to reinstall your ruby (should pull in the openssl dependency): gem install ruby If you get errors you may have to go back and do what was said above before you go back to your ruby install. I got error messages saying that ruby could not find openssl. I solved this by going back and rereading the instructions for installing ruby gem. My copy of ruby was at ruby-2.1.2_p0 I do not know if this will work, but try it: gem install ruby -v 2.1.2 gem install ruby-openssl [1]Mavis, there's no question that you love to hate me. [2]Mavis, if the tests are over, say it! [3]Mavis, it's better to be honest than to be evasive. [4]Mavis, don't be shy about who you are. [5]Mavis, when you're speaking to a group, don't mumble, either out loud or in your thoughts. [6]Mavis, don't hide. We're better off knowing what you're about. [7]Mavis, be a shining example. What you say counts more than your looks.

Little is known about the origin of the large and diverse mammalian order that is dominated by placental mammals. Mammalian neoteny is assumed to have occurred in a common ancestor, but its character and rate of increase are still unknown. Here we show that mammalian neoteny is an evolutionary process, increasing the developmental potential of a cohort of somatic cells. We identify a frequency-dependent mechanism in embryonic/fetal development that generates a broad class of mutant
