Look no further than here and here. In this Photoshop tutorial, we will learn about image adjustment layers, apply sharpening, correct lens distortion, and correct perspective to align elements of the photo, among other techniques. The goal is to sharpen and bring out details in the photo by applying various tools including Levels, Curves, Burn, Dodge, and the Spot Healing Brush. So, without further ado, let's dive into Photoshop!

1. Showing Image's Details Let's take a look at a photo of a man in a quiet room. Show Image's Details: Showing image Details on a new layer:
2. Creating a New Layer Create a new layer, name it "Young," and change the blending mode to "Normal." Create New Layer:
3. Adjusting the Exposure (Brightness) Now, let's bring out some of the details by adjusting the exposure. Adjust Image's Exposure:
4. Adjusting the Brightness Using the Brightness tool, I adjusted the image's brightness by +20 brightness. This will bring out some of the fine details of the room. Use Brightness tool on the 20-point standard, then drag to the right to apply the change:
5. Adjusting the Exposure (Darkness) Now let's bring out some of the details by adjusting the image's darkness. Adjust Image's Exposure:
6. Adjusting the Contrast Use the Contrast tool, which is located at the bottom of the Tools palette (under the Edit menu), to make the image darker in the lower left part of the photo and lighter in the right bottom part of the photo. Use Contrast tool to modify the image:
7. Adjusting the Hue Use the Hue-Saturation tool to change the color of the room's walls. The room color should be more blue in the lower left corner and red in the upper right corner. Use Hue-Saturation tool to modify color:
8. Adjusting the Saturation (Sharpening

Many aircraft have been designed to have a ducted fan propulsion system. When an aircraft has a ducted fan propulsion system, the fan generates thrust that is directed downwards into the atmosphere. The ducted fan propulsion system allows the aircraft to move at higher speeds than an aircraft without a ducted fan propulsion system. A ducted fan propulsion system includes a fan duct and a plurality of fan blades. A fan duct can be comprised of two or more sections or segments of ductwork. The fan blades are located in the fan duct. The fan blades can be attached to a hub portion of the fan duct. The fan duct and the plurality of fan blades can be located on a nacelle. The nacelle is located at the center of the propulsion system. A nacelle is located in front of the propulsion system. The nacelle is attached to an aircraft fuselage. The nacelle directs the airflow of the ducted fan propulsion system through the fan duct. The nacelle provides the airflow that the ducted fan propulsion system receives. An aircraft may include another source of airflow. The source of airflow can include a jet engine and is referred to as "jet engine airflow." When the aircraft includes a jet engine, jet engine airflow can be directed through the fan duct and through the fan blades. When jet engine airflow is directed through the fan duct, the jet engine airflow can mix with the airflow that the ducted fan propulsion system receives. When the aircraft includes both a ducted fan propulsion system and a jet engine, the fan blades that are attached to the hub of the fan duct can act as noise attenuators because the fan blades can redirect sound generated by the jet engine to a side of the nacelle and out of the airflow. However, the fan blades can also result in a reduction in the overall lift of the aircraft.

Q: Why is the number of listings less than 100 in the sidebar The sidebar seems to be missing some listings. For example, in this question, the sidebar has a total of 58 listings, but only 21 are visible. In another question (What is the purpose of the Community Promotion Ads?), there are more listings than are shown, even though that question only has 1 answer and 1 community wiki answer. Viewing this question's sidebar in another browser (Chrome 23 on OS X) shows only 11 listings (there are 11 posts, though not necessarily all of them are questions). Because the total listing count is lower, it makes me wonder how accurate the total listing count is. Why is the number of listings less than 100?

A: There's a great deal of caching and lazy loading going on here. When you view the question page in another browser, it's hitting the server with the url and then returning cached data. It's a side effect of the pagination. If you can get access to you should see that there are only 34 listings.

June 2016 The number of applications received for the UK Specialist School Awards 2016 has exceeded the quota. We are delighted that 23 specialist schools have been nominated and received more than 300 entries from schools and colleges around the UK. Specialist schools, where students have been identified as being gifted and/or talented, are key entry points for high-performing students who have the potential to reach the very top. Over 6,000 jobs will be filled by graduates from specialist schools by 2020, this makes specialist schools an extremely important entry point for young people.

David Cameron said: “We want every single school child to have the best possible chance of success in their education, and that is why we have established the Specialist Schools and Academies Trust. “The ability of schools to select high-performing students who have the potential to go on to the very top is an important part of what makes their education excellent.” Mr Cameron said the Trust’s success in reaching so many schools and high-performing students was a testament to their “innovative approach”
