aha! start by opening device manager using the start button and then click on view>details > update driver software (windows 10). on the left-hand side of the window, you should see two driver update categories: "installed updates for windows" and "updates for this device available." select the category that states "installed updates for windows." this will list all the drivers that were installed by the acer update and then may be out of date. after that. does it matter that my motherboard have no bios label what so ever when it is reset the bios waits 1 minute and then loads from hard drive. i did not feel like reseting it each time it booted. so i just left it on all day and it booted fine. the bios was set the way it should be because i have seen the bios before on my motherboard. and the only change i have done was changing the ram to 2gb. (i prefer to have it all in 1 stick cause it seems to be faster) so after setting the card that is around 70-150 no i cant wait to upgrade the bios,but. i dont have the bios flashed. because in the box the bios image is on a cd and a usb memory stick. and i have no cd drive and no usb drive. and i dont have another usb memory drive or cd drive around. can i do it another way i tried booting a 1.0 bios image that i have but it didnt boot. my motherboard,the bios doesnt have one. it just has something like an ic key on the mobo but its just for the usb memory stick. and i cant press it without it to boot. and also. there are no bios reset options to choose either one.so is there any other way i could boot my motherboard with a 1.0 bios thank you in advance.
